

Music Monday: Good News/Bad News

In a Good News/Bad News poem, you tell a story about something great that happens...except something goes wrong. But then, something goes right again! And then wrong again. And then right again! It might look like this:

The good news is...I got some new shoes. The bad news is...my dog ran outside with them. The good news is...he dropped them under a tree. The bad news is...a bird swooped down and flew off with them. The good news is...I jumped up and grabbed the laces.

Write your own Good News/Bad News poem. Start with something great that happens...then decide what goes wrong. And right! And wrong again! It can keep going until you're happy with the ending. Have a grownup share your poem with us with us at storypirates.com/submit-a-story.
