

Music Monday: Simile

A simile is what it's called when you compare one thing to another, unexpected thing. You can use the words "like" or "as" to help you do it. For example: "the biscuits were steaming hot like lava just out of a volcano" or "the cake was as sweet as a sugar unicorn galloping over a chocolate mountain."

Both of those examples were similes about food, because we wrote a song about food on our Music Monday livestream! What kind of food would you like to write a poem about? You can write your own poem below and have a grownup share it with us at storypirates.com/submit-a-story. Be sure to use some weird, fun, creative similes in your poem!
